

Trent Gould, Hamilton Homes

Why do you want to serve on the BAGI Board of Directors?

1. Being on the BAGI board would increase my ability to network with other vendors and builders to broaden my knowledge base of the residential building process. Additionally, I would like to serve in hopes to bring new ideas to other members and a fresh perspective as a second generation builder.

What is your vision as a potential board member?

2. Increased involvement with county and city organizations to have a better understanding of evolving building codes, and provide a voice for the building community.

How are you currently involved with BAGI?

3. Hamilton Homes has been an active member as a company for many years. I have recently wanted to become involved as an employee and am looking forward to attending meetings and participating.

What is your current position and what are your interests/hobbies?

4. Currently I am a building superintendent for Hamilton Homes. My hobbies include spending time with my family, hunting, and riding motorcycles.

What are the most important issues facing the residential industry and how can BAGI address them?

5. Keeping up with ever-changing building codes is definitely a challenging aspect of residential building, as well as educating the next generation of builders on the processes and importance of craftsmanship.

How have your experiences in the building industry influenced your life?

6. Attention to detail overshadows most any other takeaway as a builder. I have learned that doing a job correctly the first time saves time and energy in the long run. Life has become very fast-paced and competitive; we rarely have room for error these days.
