Strong mechanical aptitude and ability to work with your hands are a must. In-house training by current staff and supervisor will be provided for all job responsibilities.

About Us

Godby has established itself as the destination for high quality products and services in the residential construction industry. We employ full-time, year-round employees (no contractors or subs) in order to provide the high level of sales, installation, and service to our customers. Our customers include new construction, remodeling and direct retail. The majority of our growth comes from referral and repeat business from our satisfied customers. We promote a working team environment where everyone supports each other's efforts.

Who We Are Looking For

This is not your typical service technician position. We consider our service technicians to be one of our strongest marketing assets. You will be the primary person providing our customer with information related to the installation or repair of product. We want an independent thinker who enjoys working in a fast pace environment and has a desire to continue to learn. There will be significant direct contact with our customers where strong written/verbal communication is key. Attention to detail, organizational skills and follow up on multiple projects simultaneously is also critical. The position has tremendous growth potential for someone who continually seeks new challenges.

The Job

This position will be a service technician for gas fireplaces and a liaison to all our customers. You will be representing the company by consulting, installing and repairing gas fireplaces and related gas products. There is wide range of technology with in our industry from millivolt pilot ignition systems to hot surface ignition systems. Developing a high level of technical competency on this range of product will be critical to your success and growth with the company.
